Introduction

Some Lexus vehicles are equipped with high-friction front brake pads, specifically designed for superior braking performance and response. As a result, under certain conditions, it is possible for the customer to experience a larger volume of brake dust on the wheels.

For customers who find these characteristics objectionable, an alternative brake pad material has been developed. As with any change made to brake pad material, braking performance and feeling may be altered and could possibly be reduced under certain driving conditions as a result of their usage.

These alternative front brake pads have now been made available as service parts.

Applicable Vehicles

- 2006 2007 model year GS 430 and IS 250/350 vehicles.
- 2007 model year GS 350/450h vehicles.
